

03 Epic Development

At this stage, our team gets to work bringing your product to life with Agile efficiency. Our project managers and team leads work directly with you at each step of the way to ensure the product meets your specifications.

// CASE STUDY

International Grocer

A multinational grocery and retail client operating hundreds of locations world-wide engaged Digital Studio to provide an Agile team to develop a series of proprietary software products to support and improve operational processes. These applications replace legacy and out of date technologies and significantly improve daily operations, reduce costly human errors and improve employee experience and morale.

Our experience in Agile product development, UX design and modern web application development were essential to delivering the clients vision of modernized and digitally enabled processes.

Spanning several projects over a multi-year period, our team consisting of Project Managers, Business Analysts, UX Designers / Researchers, Software Architects, Software Developers, and Quality Assurance specialists helped our client create uniquely software that helped them gain efficiencies while reducing complexity.

This program is projected to generate millions of dollars in cost reductions over the next 2 to 3 years.
