Quality Assurance

As companies adopt a transformation-mindset, the pace of new product development, application enhancements and process improvements is skyrocketing. As these solutions become more complicated and integrated, the need to ensure the quality of the final product continues to increase.

Today's customers have little tolerance for poor experiences; it is imperative to ensure that your products are of the highest quality.

Online's team of Quality Assurance (QA) professionals embed quality into every initiative, helping to position your organization for success.

Our Approach

We believe that quality is the result of intentional focus throughout product development. As such, we look to include our Quality Assurance Analysts on every project, as early as possible. These analysts use leading software testing best practices to make sure each software release meets your customer experience goals. We are committed to continuously look for opportunities to improve quality as companies go through their digital transformation.

Our team helps our clients in a number of different ways, including:

Addressing peaks and valleys in activity with specialized QA resources

The fast pace of development initiatives can make it difficult for organizations to have the qualified QA resources available when needed. Online's QA professionals integrate into existing teams or, more often, we provide an entire team for testing.

Assistance in adopting Agile-based methodologies

As your organization uses new methods to deliver software, your quality assurance efforts need to evolve to consider the new complexities and points of integration. Our team provides assistance, mentoring and training on leading techniques like performance and test automation, CI/CD, etc.

Managed Quality Assurance Services

Our Managed QA services allow clients to scale up, or scale down, a team of quality assurance resource based on their needs, and the systems being supported. Custom product development solutions and off-the-shelf software are candidates for Managed Quality Assurance.

Additional Benefits

In addition to improving the quality of solutions we allow our clients to:

> Control cost and stay within budget

> Address short term need for specialized skills

> Take advantage of new methods and best practices without having to invest in expensive training
