

DATA SERVICES

Able to provide foundational competitive advantages, confidence behind decision-making, improved customer experiences, optimized operations, governance strategies, and accelerated execution of the above- the value that data can provide is only as good as the efforts made by organizations to prioritize it.

Data leaders are investing heavily to align data engineering & architecture, data management & governance, and data literacy & analytics. When done right, your data management can empower your organization to chart out a clear path towards the future.

Navigating the complexities of these moving parts is not a simple process. It requires a vision, experience, and a mature organizational culture. It means getting data out of silos, adopting new ways of working, and cultivating a laser focus on business outcomes.

Data Services at Online

Our Data Services team works with organizations to assess and map out their data vision, and then provide the support, tools and programs to make it a value-driven reality.

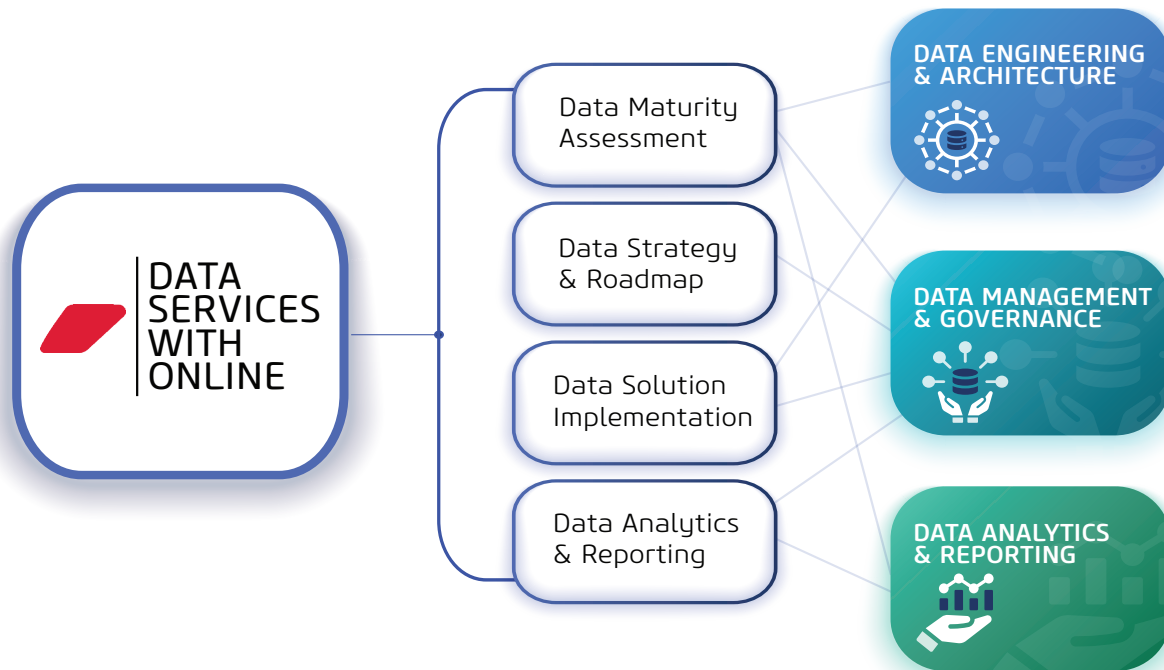

Working closely with Online's Innovation Lab on crucial AI technologies such as Machine Learning, Natural Language Processing, and GenAI, our teams focus on how data ultimately enables these innovative methods.

Your Data is the Ultimate Catalyst - We can help you Activate it.

With the market shift towards generative technologies and IoT devices, this complex landscape demands increased focus on data governance, security, and compliance.

Be sure to ask our team about work we've done in this space, and how our Risk, Security & Privacy teams can add value and peace of mind to your data services story.

Data at Work - Ignite your goals with the power of data

A number of United Way agencies came together around a shared goal of increasing donations back to the community

The United Way agencies built a shared solution that allowed them to easily share and access data, while still operating individually on different Microsoft Azure subscriptions.

Online provided experienced consultants to extract data from relevant sources, rearchitected the existing on-premise solution to take advantage of Data Lakes and enable secure collaborate between offices. to make better decisions, understand their donors and ultimately increase donations back to the community.
